Vet Tommy Melbourne recalls time in Korea

A MONTHLY FEATURE IN THE SEA COAST ECHO

For many today, knowledge of the Korean War extends no further than to recognize it as "The Forgotten War" or the "Unknown War."

It didn't receive nearly as much attention by the media as World War II, which concluded five years earlier. Perhaps it doesn't occupy similar prominence in history because the Korean War was fought on a much smaller geographic scale, was conducted far away on a peninsula unfamiliar to most Americans and came at a time the country was emerging from fatigue after the most trying commitment the United States had endured.

Clint Eastwood described the common sentiment at the time, saying, "I was drafted during the Korean War. None of us wanted to go. ... It was only a couple of years after World War II had ended. We said, 'Wait a second. Didn't we just get through with that?'"

"None of us wanted to go," but go they did and about 36,000 American fighting men and women didn't return home. Approximately 36,000 dead and 105,000 wounded, numbers hard to comprehend without putting human faces to each of the individuals that make up the sums. The number of Korean War veterans is dwindling with time, which makes meeting one of the wounded veterans on this Memorial Day a special opportunity to put a face to a number.

long love of spear fishing. His fast-paced stories of these subjects distract from noticing his missing fingers at first.

When asked, Tommy explains his injuries matter-of-factly, "I enlisted when I just made 17. Spent just about a year in the States and then I got caught in the trap in November of '50. I almost got killed."

Memorial Day Weekend 2019 will be truly memorable for the Mississippi Gulf Coast with three different festivals for locals and visitors alike, featuring a wildly diverse mix of music, food, arts, fun and -- most importantly -- ample opportunities to honor the men and women in uniform who made the ultimate sacrifice for our freedom.

St. Clare Seafood Fest

The St. Clare Seafood Festival is in full swing today and will continue on Sunday in Waveland. The event kicked off on Friday with a "Tribute to the Military," featuring former U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

This year, the parish is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Here's the complete seafood fest schedule for the remainder of the weekend:

The fifth annual classic car show will be held from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. Food will be available for purchase at 11 a.m.

Sippiana Soul with Pat Murphy will perform from noon-3 p.m. Saturday.

Saturday night's live entertainment will be Category 6, which will perform from 7-10 p.m. The festival closes at 11 p.m. on Saturday.

On Sunday, the festival will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Brett Ladner will host a corn hole tournament from 1-3 p.m.

Brandon Hogue and Kameron Jackson, a guitar/piano duet, will perform from 1-3 p.m. Foret Tradition will perform from 7-10 p.m. Sunday, and the evening will end with a fireworks show.

Food available for purchase will include boiled

The Waveland Board of Mayor and Aldermen on Wednesday discussed the possibility of investing with Trinity Capital Investors.

Jeff Wilson, chief investment officer with Trinity, told the board that the firm handles about $465 million in public entity funds.

Wilson said the firm helps cities, counties, and universities "earn the highest interest rate they can."

Waveland City Clerk Mickey Lagasse said he invited Wilson to speak to the board after watching Hancock County make the same investment and speaking with County Administrator Eddie Favre.

Wilson said public entities "are allowed to do certain things that are guaranteed by the U.S. government."

Harvesting has begun at the Bay St. Louis Community Garden. The loam workers picked beans, banana peppers, cherry tomatoes and some herbs to go the Senior Center on Bookter. "Next week will be even better as the rain will let up and sunshine becomes the order of the day as a high pressure system will sit over the southeast part of the country and keep rain chances low," Katharine Ohman said. "The garden is lush with foliage and ripening fruit and veg. Our honey bees are busy pollinating and making their home near the beds. The hardworking volunteers are beginning to see the fruit of all their labors." A second row of cinder blocks has been added to each one of its raised beds, additional soil, mulch and fertilizer was added to accommodate the new height. The new blocks were secured through various public donations. The NAACP donated the blocks for the adopted bed that is tended by its members. Katherine Ohman, the head gardener and her husband John donated an Orient Pear tree to the Edible Forest section of the garden in honor of Richard Garziano.

Pass Christian Police Chief Tim Hendricks announces retirement

SEA COAST ECHO

Pass Christian Police Chief Tim Hendricks announced this week he will be retiring effective June 27.

"I am looking forward to spending time with family and friends, but I wanted to take this opportunity to thank you for all the great experiences and relationships this job has bestowed upon me," Hendricks said in a letter to Pass Christian Mayor Leo "Chipper" McDermott. "I have genuinely enjoyed working for you and the great people in this community."

Hendricks praised the officers in the department, saying they "have shown exemplary acts of dedication, professionalism and integrity," and said they "have become a team and a family. Our administrative staff is highly-respected, well-educated and as good as any city on the Coast. ... Our Deputy Chief (Darren Freeman) is a strong, intelligent and experienced leader that will continue these expectations."

Freeman -- formerly the Bay St. Louis police chief -- will serve as interim chief until the position is filled, city officials said.

McDermott said in a statement that he hopes to have the next chief hired by the time Hendricks officially retires.

Hendricks, who began his law enforcement career in Ohio, where he intends to return after retirement. He spent 15 years with the Biloxi Police Department and six years with the D'Iberville P.D. before becoming the Pass Christian chief in June 2015. He replaced long-time Chief John Dubuisson.

That succinct summary is indicative of Tommy's ebullient personality and desire to downplay dark passages of his life history and accentuate the positive. When he opens up about the details of the war, however, his descriptions are chilling.

"The war didn't scare me until I got there and saw my buddies getting killed. The company commander sent them out on patrol. They had only been gone five minutes and we heard some terrible firing, automatic weapons and everything. So, we rushed down there, the whole company, and there they were lying in the ditch. They were all deformed and covered in blood. They had been mutilated terribly. They executed them too because you could tell the way their heads were shaped after shooting them in the back of the head."

Tommy was a teenager when he saw the first of many gruesome scenes of death in the frozen gray mountains of North Korea, experiences he didn't see coming.

"The war wasn't going on when I enlisted. I think I would have still joined though," Tommy said.

It's hard to imagine a 17 year old fighting a war and killing the enemy, but Tommy met someone even younger than him. "One boy from Baltimore was 16 years old and -- poor little guy -- he got killed. The shrapnel cut that vein, blood was shooting up in the air and I put a little clamp on. He said it hurt but it beat dying, so I kept it on there."

The clamp though couldn't keep the 16 year old from dying in the arms of a 17 year old. It was two boys, who months earlier, knew only peaceful teenage lives growing up in America.

Movies may glorify killing on the battlefield but Tommy puts it in a somber light.

"I got 17 confirmed kills and that bothers me; women and men, but they were shooting at us. You don't mind it when you're doing it, but boy after you think about it, it's terrible. Just think: I killed people. I didn't want to kill anybody."

Killing was a matter of survival. The number of American troops paled in comparison to the Chinese and North Korean armies and the numbers of the enemy on the battlefield were nearly incomprehensible to Tommy.

"There were so many of them. We were outnumbered 14-to-1 and once our planes dropped their napalm and bombs, they had to go back to the base and rearm and refuel. When they saw the planes going back, boy, that's when they came at us."

"You ought to have seen them the first time they attacked us. It was just a solid mass of humanity coming toward you. Some of them had big swords and even spears. And blowing their trumpets; boy, that used to make me get cold chills."

The battle of Chosin Reservoir was one of the most brutal battles of the war. Temperatures dropped to minus-54 degrees. After the war, one survivor made a bumper sticker that said "Once Upon a Time Hell Froze Over. We Were There."

Tommy has carried reminders of that battle on each hand for nearly 70 years. "I took my trenching tool and I dug and dug and I got in under a big boulder where I could get back and it felt a little warmer in there. Four boys were standing outside my hole when a mortar dropped on us. They were all killed. The explosion knocked me out. I didn't know where I was when I woke up."

"My helmet was black from the flash but the worst of it was I lost two fingers on each hand. The little finger on my right hand was barely hanging on and I couldn't put that hand in my pocket. I said, 'That's not going to work anymore,' and I bit it off and threw it on the ground."

Wounded and temporarily deaf from the explosion, Tommy made his way to some American trucks loaded with the dead and wounded. Most of the guys had lost their helmets and had donned caps from dead Chinese soldiers to stay warm. The fuchsia panels that were supposed to be on the roofs of the truck cabs so pilots could identify them as American forces were either lost or forgotten in the chaos. The hope of making it back to American lines evaporated in an instant.

"Our planes -- F-80 Shooting Stars -- came down and napalmed the guys leading the convoy out. I could see them walking for a few seconds and then they just collapsed." Tommy tried to rationalize the tragedy, saying, "They thought we were Chinese. I guess we looked so bad too."

Tommy jumped off the truck and ran away from the road with a few other G.I.'s. Eighteen miles, dozens of roadblocks and thousands of Chinese troops separated them from the American line. "I spent that day and that night hiding and moving and then the next day and the next day and the next day...that's how I made it."

Few details of his harrowing escape across the icy mountains are forthcoming, leaving one to think those memories are better left undisturbed. Tommy is eager to describe his rescue though, as disturbing a scene as it was.

"Finally, after a week I made it back to our lines, the Marines. There were six of us at first, four of them got shot, so eventually it was just me and another boy. At the end we see the tank in the middle of the road and I looked, and it was night, and I saw the cat eyes and I started screaming 'G.I.'s, G.I.'s! Company B, 32nd Regiment, 7th Division, Chosin Reservoir! Here we are.' I saw the turret open and he had a 90mm on that Patton pointing toward us and they got a machine gun too. I thought, 'We went through all this and now we're going to get killed by our own people.' Finally a Marine Major jumped out and said, 'Oh boy, you guys are in terrible shape.'"

"We didn't know how bad we looked. We were terrible. We ate raw pork. I ate a little piece. It had bristles on it but I was eating it. Cramps started getting me, I was throwing up and had loose bowels. And it was 40 degrees below zero, so our pants froze. They were cracking when we walked. I couldn't unbuckle my uniform because it's hard when your hands are all messed up."

Tommy's next comment on his condition upon encountering the Marines is particularly stark. "This hand was frozen to my gun. I had one round left in my .45 Colt." It didn't need to be said that he kept that last round for himself if capture by the enemy was imminent.

Tommy was taken directly to the aid station, which provided little emotional comfort. "In the aid station it was nothing but blood. Doctors were covered in blood. MASH (the TV show) was nothing like that."

Tommy's mangled hands, shrapnel lacerations and frostbit nose and ears were treated in preparation for more comprehensive care back in the States. "After that it was the beginning of the end. I saw engineers with big Caterpillar bulldozers and they were bulldozing an airstrip out right next to us. Here come the old C-47, best plane in the world because that's what took me out of there."

Tommy's last sight of Korea was one he'll never forget.

"On the flight out we looked down and we could see what looked like millions of Chinese. Every road was clogged with them and they had tanks and a lot of new Russian equipment."

The last question of Tommy about the war was if he did some praying in Korea. His response reflected the universal impact of war on all people.

"Whew, we never stopped. Even guys who were atheists were praying!"

After the war, Tommy had a career at Lorio Iron Works in New Orleans, married a girl from Pontotoc, Mississippi, and had six children. Sadly, a daughter, then a son and then his wife passed on, facts of life spoken plainly but tenderly by Tommy. Perhaps his experience as a 17 year old in North Korea

Hancock County Bank (1899—1963)

The Hancock County Bank was organized on August 29, 1899. Attending the organizational meeting were nineteen business minded people. Among them were prominent local citizens as well as some New Orleans business and industrial titans who had summer homes and economic interests in the county. In fact the key founders and largest investors were the Hellwege and Dunbar families as well as Eugene Roberts. At the organizational meeting, the founders elected a board of directors, adopted a charter, and subscribed to 198 shares of stock.

The first president was Peter Hellwege (1843—1907), who headed the cotton, stock, and brokerage house of Peter Hellwege Company in New Orleans. Hellwege served until his death in 1907.

The Dunbar Family owned a seafood cannery in Bay St. Louis and fifteen other canneries along the Gulf Coast (See Historian March 2018.) Eugene Roberts was a New Orleans banker and was president from 1907—1918. This mix of big league New Orleans capitalists and several small, local merchants/businessmen proved ideal. The mission and outlook from the beginning was optimistic and forward-thinking about the economic future of the American economy, Hancock County, and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. From the beginning the function of the bank was not only to provide financial services but also to be actively interested and directly involved in the projects, problems, and progress of the local and regional community.

On October 9, 1899, the bank opened in a small building adjoining the property of St. Joseph's Academy on South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis. Paying rent of $7.00 per month, the bank had $10,000 in capital and $8,277.41 in deposits. In March 1900 John T. McDonald began construction on a new bank for $5,100 which included a vault. It was the first two-story brick building in Hancock County. With its opening in September 1900, it housed a bank, a U.S. Customs Office, and offices of a dentist, a lawyer, and a doctor. In 1902 the first branch was opened in Pearlinton, and in the same year a second branch was opened in Pass Christian.

Eugene Harper Roberts (1871—1923) took over the presidency in 1907 because of the untimely death of Hellwege. Roberts sent his branch manager, J. F. Cazeneuve to the Pearlinton branch each day. He boarded the L & N train in the morning and got off at the Dunbar/Ainsley depot. From there he boarded the mail boat Margaret operated by Captain Rod Boardman to get to Pearlinton. It was not unusual for him to issue cashier

Wicker Reflects on the Meaning of Memorial Day

America Owes a Debt to the Fallen and a Commitment to their Legacy

Frederick Douglass gave thousands of speeches throughout his life. But the former slave included the full text of only one in his autobiography. That speech was given in 1871 on Memorial Day, then named Decoration Day. Standing by the tomb of an unknown soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, Douglass warned, "Dark and sad will be the hour to this nation when it forgets to pay grateful homage to its greatest benefactors."

It turns out Douglass had no need to fear. Almost a century and a half after that speech, Americans still gather to remember service members who made the ultimate sacrifice for our nation. Those honored include everyone from the first Americans who secured our freedom in the Revolutionary War, to recent losses in Afghanistan and Iraq, and

by Roger Wicker

all soldiers who have given their lives protecting our country in between.

But Memorial Day is more than an occasion to remember. The holiday calls us to renew commitments to those who serve and to their families.

PROVIDING FOR SERVICE MEMBERS, VETERANS, AND THEIR FAMILIES
Our first commitment is to those fighting today for the same freedoms past generations died defending. That includes the more than 11,500 Mississippians currently on active duty and the additional 16,000 in the reserve and our state's National Guard. The Senate Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, is dedicated to ensuring that these brave men and women have everything they need to fulfill their missions and return home safely from deployments.

The committee approved the annual National Defense Authorization Act, which funds our military. Our Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, and Marines need updated recruitment, training, and equipment to maintain readiness and deter aggression in the 21st century. National defense is an area of common cause for all Americans, and my colleagues on both sides of the aisle have worked together to understand new challenges and to provide more resources to every service branch.

Our second commitment on Memorial Day is, as Abraham Lincoln said, "To care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan." These are our veterans and Gold Star families.

As the son of a World War II veteran, the father of an Air Force officer, and a veteran myself, I understand the unique needs our troops face when they come home. We need to ensure the Department of Veterans Affairs is responsive to those needs.

Gold Star families also deserve every honor and support available to them. In May, I continued that effort by cosponsoring the Gold Star Family Tax Relief Act, which will protect full military survivors' benefits for those

VA, Medicare and Opioid Abuse

Half of veterans who are enrolled in Department of Veterans Affairs health care also are signed up with Medicare Part D. What that means is they can get their prescriptions from either the VA or Medicare through a civilian doctor ... or too often from both. Until now there has been no way to tell if a veteran was collecting opioids from both sources.

A recent study looked at 200 patients who died and 800 others, categorizing them as VA only, Medicare

GUEST COLUMN
by Freddy Groves

only or both. Of these, 60 patients who died and 117 control patients had received opioid prescriptions from both sources. They had a much higher chance of dying from drug overdose than those who received drugs from only the VA or Medicare.

Granted, these stats are from 2012 and 2013, but it does indicate a very likely pattern -- patients who are able to get painkillers from two sources just might use both.

Now the VA and Medicare have hooked up with a program to monitor drug prescriptions, including opioids. The VA will be able to keep an eye on drugs prescribed by health-care sources outside the VA and will know if anyone has been prescribed double the amount.

What the press release doesn't say is just how the VA plans to monitor the drug prescriptions. Will it have access to a patient's file at a civilian doctor? Will it have access to the Medicare computer? Or the pharmacy? Between the doctor, the pharmacy and Medicare, at what point will the VA know what's being prescribed?

And if a drug is doubly prescribed for a veteran, what is the VA going to do about it?

The biggest question of all: Will this require new computer software at the VA? If so, it could take some time.

checks on the boat for salesmen doing business in Logtown who wanted to get rid of cash. On the way back to the train depot in the afternoon, he also handled deposits, withdrawals, and made loans to customers from that area while waiting for the train back to Bay St. Louis. Hancock County Bank may have been the only Mississippi bank to have conducted branch banking on a mail boat. Roberts gave up the presidency of the bank in 1918 and was replaced by Horatio Stephen Weston (1863—1931).

The local timber industry had been wellrepresented on the Board of Directors by Weston, who was in charge of the Weston Lumber Company of Logtown. Weston later became president of the Lamar Life Insurance Company and spent much of his time in Jackson, MS. In 1918, he brought Leo W. Seal, Sr., to the bank. At the time Seal was working for the Weston family business in Logtown, but with the move he became the cashier of the Hancock County Bank.

In those days the cashier was the COO (Chief Operating Officer) who would actually run the day to day operation. Weston was a staunch advocate of good roads and adequate bridges. In addition he was strongly in favor of seawall protection for the beach roads. Weston and Seal made a real “dream team” modernizing Hancock County during the 1920’s and building some of the necessary infrastructure that would be required to achieve future prosperity in the area. Weston suffered a debilitating stroke in 1929 and died in 1931.

At the beginning of the 20th century, Hancock County and the rest of the Gulf Coast was, at least from a business point of view, almost completely isolated from the rest of the world.

There was no bridge across the Bay of St. Louis, or the Pearl River, for wagons and carriages...not even a ferry! All passenger travel or transport of freight was by rail or boat or, less often, over the frequently impassible county road that wound from the Kiln around the Bay to connect with the Old Pass Road.

The county desperately needed infrastructure such as roads and bridges to foster commerce. In the 1920’s the Hancock County Bank under the direction of Weston and Seal bought the entire $400,000 issue of Hancock County Bonds to expedite and guarantee the construction of the Old Spanish Trail.

Although it would originally be a gravel road, it was the precursor of our most vital artery, US Highway 90.

Seal understood the value and importance of bond finance better than any other banker in the South, even at this early age.

Likewise, Seal and Weston financed the old steam ferry that operated on the Bay between Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian. Weston was also president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors in the 1920’s, and he contended that the ferry was slow, inadequate to handle the ever increasing traffic as well as being dangerous. Consequently, the county was persuaded by these forward-thinking bankers to build a bridge across the Bay.

The wooden bridge was built in 1928 for $750,610.65. It was a joint project negotiated between the federal government, Hancock County, and Harrison County. In that time frame Hancock County Bank bought other bond issues for construction of strategic county roads, the beachfront seawall, and public schools. It loaned money to build many of the churches in the area.

The first, and temporary, location of the Hancock Bank was in this building adjacent to St. Joseph’s Academy on South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis. It remained here from October 9, 1899, until the completion of the new bank in September 1900.

The infrastructure for automobiles and trucks made it possible for Hancock County to evolve from a “nickel and dime economy to one of real dollars at its base.” Seal was elected president by the Board of Directors by a unanimous vote in 1931 after Weston’s death. From the start in 1899, the Hancock County Bank was unpretentious, but solid and substantial. Seal operated on the fundamentals of stability, personal integrity, and public service. But of all his many accomplishments during the thirtythree years he served as president, his highest and finest accomplishment was bringing the Hancock County Bank through the Great Depression.

It should be noted that during that period 162 banks in Mississippi failed, including five on the coast. Ironically, it was the Great Depression that provided the opportunity for the bank to achieve ultimate success and recognition no one in Hancock County at that time dreamed would occur.

On the morning after Thanksgiving in 1931, the three banks in Gulfport failed to open. Subsequently, the mayor of Gulfport and a delegation of businessmen came over to Hancock county to plead with Seal to establish a branch in Gulfport.

In spite of the risk of expansion during the evolving crash of the national economy, Seal instinctively recognized the opportunity in Gulfport. His vision at that moment became regional rather than local, and by 1938 the headquarters of the bank moved to Gulfport, and the name of the bank changed from Hancock County Bank to Hancock Bank.

At that time Seal prophesied, “We believe this is going to be one of the best moves we have ever made, and it should be a most profitable venture in every respect.”

He and his bank would help transform an economy on the Gulf Coast primarily based on timber to core diversified industry and see quaint summertime “waterholes” along the coast become a year round salt water recreation land, the “Riviera of America.”

Under the leadership of Seal, the Hancock Bank and Hancock County experienced significant growth and development in the 1940’s and 1950’s. Hancock Bank supported farmers and animal breeders of blooded rams and Holstein and Brahma bulls. Seal was a pioneer in reforestation of area piney woods.

The bank purchased and introduced three mechanical tree planters to encourage timber growing and reforestation. Seal also helped Gulfport convert from a timber port to one for general cargo.

During the 1950’s the Mississippi Highway Department named the Hancock Bank trustee in a $9.2M bond issue to build a more modern concrete bridge across the Bay of St. Louis because the wooden one had burned more than once since it had been built. Senator John Stennis was exuberant in his praise of Seal for their combined efforts to persuade the U. S. Government to locate the NASA Rocket Engine Test Facility in Hancock County.

In conclusion, an important era ended when Leo Seal, Sr., passed away in 1963. The bank and Hancock County survived the Great Depression, World War II, and hurricanes. Under Seal’s stewardship, the bank grew from a $1.7M institution in 1932 to a bank with assets of over $41.8M in September 1963 (See chart below.). Much needed infrastructure in Hancock County had been finished and built. Seal received numerous awards of recognition during his lifetime such as the King Neptune Award for promoting welfare and prosperity of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. He also received the Mississippi Forestry Award. Seal enjoyed the reputation of being one of the most important leaders in banking circles throughout the country. He was the first Mississippi banker to be president of the Independent Bankers Association of America, composed of seven thousand banks.

In spite of his numerous successes, he was well liked by his peers, and he never lost his humility or sense of humor. Quoting Tom Miller of Hancock Bank, who worked with Leo Seal, Sr., for twenty - seven years and knew him well: “While serving as president of the Independent Bankers Association, someone on the train going to a Miami convention asked, ‘Leo, who runs the bank when you are gone so much?’ His reply was, ‘The same people who run it when I’m there!’”

School District, 16.7 percent of third-graders did not meet the Literacy-Based Promotion Act requirements. In the Pass Christian School District, 21.5 percent of third-graders did not meet the LBPA requirements. In the Bay-Waveland School District, 22.1 percent of third-graders did not meet the LBPA requirements.

According to MDE, the LBPA requires third-graders to "pass a reading assessment to qualify for promotion to 4th grade. An amendment to the law in 2016 raised reading-level expectations starting in the 2018-19 school year, requiring third-graders to score at level three or higher on the reading portion of the Mississippi Academic Assessment Program English Language Arts assessment."

According to an MDE release, 74.5 percent of the state's third-graders met the higher standards, with 25.5 percent who did not. Those students will have two opportunities to retest prior to the new school year, a release from MDE states.

"This year's assessment is a new beginning because the passing score has been raised one level to move closer to measuring proficiency," state Superintendent of Education Dr. Carey Wright said in the release. "Students need strong reading skills in order to learn other school subjects, such as science, social studies, writing, and even math. I am proud of all the students, teachers, school leaders, and parents who have worked hard to help students become competent readers by the end of third-grade."

According to the LBPA, students who do not pass the reading assessment must be retained in the third-grade. Exemptions apply to "certain students with disabilities, students learning English, or students who have been previously retained. Local school districts determine which of their students who did not pass qualify for one of the good cause exemptions for promotion to fourth-grade. The law requires schools to provide intensive reading intervention services to students retained in the third-grade and to students promoted to the fourth-grade with a good cause exemption."

"Literacy must remain a major focus in pre-K through third-grade to help students build the foundational reading skills they need to be successful throughout school," Wright said in the release. "As we raise expectations for students, we must do all that we can to help them meet higher academic standards."

The MDE has "assigned 80 literacy coaches to 182 schools throughout the state where data show students struggle the most with reading."

MDE will announce in June which schools will receive grants for summer reading camps, the release states.

Overall in the Hancock County School District, 83.3 percent of third-graders met LBPA requirements. At East Hancock Elementary School, 93.5 percent met requirements; at Hancock North Central Elementary, 79.1 percent met requirements; at South Hancock Elementary School, 78.3 percent met requirements; at West Hancock Elementary School, 77.2 percent met requirements.

Hancock County School District Superintendent Alan Dedeaux said Friday that he was "very excited that our students performed well."

He attributed the students' results to "hard work and planning by teachers and staff."

"The students really worked hard on this assessment," Dedeaux said. "We do a lot of proactive things in that area and identify kids with troubles. Interventions start in about the first or second grade."

Students who did not meet the LBPA requirements retested about a week ago, he said.

"We do not have the results yet, but I feel like we have some students that will do well and further that success rate," Dedeaux said.

Overall, 78.5 percent of Pass Christian School District's third-graders met the LBPA requirements. At DeLisle Elementary School, 79.7 percent met the requirements; and at Pass Christian Elementary School, 77.3 percent met the requirements.

Overall, 77.9 percent of Bay-Waveland School District's third-graders at North Bay Elementary met LBPA requirements.

Calls to Pass Christian School District Superintendent Dr. Carla Evers and Bay-Waveland School District Dr. Sandra Reed were unreturned by press time Friday.

HONORING THE LEGACY OF OUR NATION’S HEROES

We can never repay the debt we owe to those we pay tribute to this Memorial Day. But we can learn from their examples and teach our children the meaning of their sacrifices.

On Memorial Day, my family and I join others from across the country to remember those who gave their last full measure of devotion and to honor the legacy of our nation’s heroes. Grateful Americans march in parades, lay wreaths, pray and observe moments of silence for the fallen – a few solemn moments that should bind us together in memory and renewed purpose.

American Legion, Legion Riders, and Legion Aux. to honor veterans for Memorial Day 2019

American Legion Post 139's Memorial Day Weekend observances begin with National Poppy Day®, Saturday, May 25 from 8 a.m. to noon in front of Walmart when members of American Legion Auxiliary (ALA) Unit 139 Miss Poppy, the twin Little Miss Poppies, and Junior members distribute bright red poppies in exchange for a donation.

The Flanders Fields poppy has become an internationally known symbol of the lives sacrificed in war and the hope that none died in vain. Each year members of the American Legion Junior Auxiliary "distribute" poppies for a donation. Poppies are never sold out of respect for the loss of loved ones in foreign conflicts.

Proceeds from poppy donations are used to continue serving veterans, active military and their families.

American Legion Post 139, Legion Riders and American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 invite everyone in the Bay/Waveland area to their Memorial Day observance on Sunday, May 26, 2019. Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts will begin at 9 a.m. placing small flags on all veterans' graves in all Bay St. Louis cemeteries.

At 9:30 am, the Memorial Day Ceremony will begin at the gravesite of Clement R. Bontemps in St. Mary's Cemetery on Second Street. The Legion Color Guard will present the colors followed by a brief service. The American Legion Auxiliary Miss Poppy and Little Miss Poppies will lay the traditional wreath of crepe poppies.

The poppies used in the wreath are made by hospitalized veterans. Immediately following the service, there will be grilled hamburgers and hot dogs at the Post Home located at 701 Green Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis.

For more information, visit our websites at <https://www.legion.org> and <https://www.alaforveterans.org>.

If you are a veteran who served during a conflict and would like to join the American Legion please message the Commander of Post 139 on their Facebook page, or go to the American Legion website: <https://www.members.legion.org>.

If you or your daughter is a descendant of a veteran and would like to be part of the American Legion Auxiliary, please contact Unit 139 on its Facebook page or call June at 228-344-0358.

still maintain control and ownership of that money," Wilson said. "But we believe we can offer you a competitive term higher than you're getting now. The money you invest is completely liquid and you can have it back at any time."

Wilson said Trinity provides a contract and there is also a third-party state-approved custodian.

All investments also adhere to Mississippi statute 21-33-323 and 31-19-5, he added.

For investments, Trinity utilizes a "mixture of Treasuries, GNMA's, Mississippi taxable municipal bonds, and other allowable investments," the proposal states.

Lagasse said he proposed the city could invest about $2.5 million.

There is about $1.6 million in the old depository account, which is on hold for FEMA, he said. The city of Waveland savings account has about $220,000 and Lagasse said he proposed taking about $700,000 out of the city's depository account, which has a fund balance of about $3.9 million.

At present, if the city invested $2.5 million in its local bank, the interest rate would be 1.31 percent, with an annual net earning of $10,916, Lagasse said.

Should the city invest with Trinity, Lagasse said, it could invest $2.5 million at a starting interest rate of 2.5 percent, which would yield earnings of about $56,250 over the course of a year.

That is after Trinity's quarterly fee of one-quarter of one percent of what was deposited, Lagasse said. He estimated that annual cost to be about $6,250.

The proposal also included possible interest rates of 2.7 and 2.9 percent, which could yield annually about $61,250 and $66, 250, respectively, Lagasse said.

Alderman Shane LaFontaine said that he is "all about investing, but I want to sit down and discuss the amounts and where it's coming from."

Other board members also agreed that investing would be a good option, but collectively decided to table the matter until further discussion on the matter.

In other action:

The board recognized the Bay High School softball team. For the first time in 10 years, the team participated in the playoffs. Team members include: Ahmia Khadaroo, Kayla LaFontaine, Rhea Lymuel, Aubrey Smith, McKenna LaFontaine, Blakeleigh Lumpkin, Lizzie Weems, Domonique Cole, Lauren-Anne Lagasse, Liyuan Hilliard, Brennan Brooks, McKenzie Farve, Annabelle Hayes, Breleigh Miller, Annlyssa Richardson, Aimme Smith, and Gracey Adkins. The team is led by Coach Wali Shabazz.

The board recognized city comptroller Ron Duckworth as April's Employee of the Month.

Smith announced that on Wednesday, officials held a pre-construction meeting for the Martin Luther King, Jr. Park Community Center. A groundbreaking is scheduled for June 3 and a notice to proceed was issued for June 5.

The board scheduled a second public hearing for 410 Wainwright St. for June 4 at 6:30 p.m.

The board approved a motion to end the city's current leases with Dunks Cafe and High Bueno, LLC., which are located in the Waveland Business Center on Coleman Avenue. This will end a month-to-month lease with the required 30-day notice. The end date is June 30 with the new master tenant , Studio Waveland, LLC, taking possession on July 1.

The board approved a motion to transfer $6,000 from the city's beautification budget to Keep Waveland Beautiful. During the week of June 2-7, Tennessee High School volunteers will be helping the organization work on beautification projects.

City attorney Rachel Yarborough announced that she would be resigning as city attorney, effective at the end June. Yarborough said she plans to spend more time with family.

The next meeting is scheduled for 4 at 6:30 p.m.

Athletics 2018-19: The end is part of the journey

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

On August 1, 2018, this past athletic year began in earnest not knowing what the future held or what the outcome would be for the four area schools and their student-athletes during their 10-month ordeal on the fields and courts of interscholastic play.

It seemed like eons ago when this year's seniors suited up for the first time and it seems that way now for the youngsters who spent a year looking up to these seniors who have taken their last free throw, shot on goal, or at-bat.

It was a year wrought with ups and downs in the wins and losses column and one that ran the emotional gamut with close-but-not quite to over-the-top finishes.

The 2018-19 academic calendar brought the area only two state championships - Our Lady Academy volleyball and St. Stanislaus College sailing. One may wonder why an area that fields 69 varsity teams in 14 different interscholastic sports across four different high schools doesn't have more state titles than that.

Well, the answer lies definitively in those numbers just mentioned. That is a lot of varsity teams spread out over a finite demographic and population. While other counties enjoy a full range of radar amongst their population about half of Hancock County is not able to be utilized for development or residential living because of Stennis Space Center and the buffer zone. That limits what Hancock County can choose from, drastically. Not to mention, there is a state line bordering one side of our county and the Gulf of Mexico bordering the southern boundary. Those areas cannot be annexed or used for population growth. To make a long story short, that is a tough row to hoe.

However, in my humble opinion, which is touted from 27 years of sports coverage in the area, our high school student-athletes maxed out their potential this past year with outstanding success. Let's take a look back at what transpired on the fields and courts of play scattered throughout the area.

When volleyball tipped off in August, the OLA Crescents and the Hancock Lady Hawks dismantled the competition and stood holding division titles. The Crescents won their 20th consecutive division title and 13th overall Class I state championship in the sport while Hancock held aloft their Class III division title and advanced to the Final Four for the fourth consecutive year.

If you are looking to see what area dominates one sport, volleyball ends the discussion, but let look further.

On the gridiron, the area simply suffered across the board with just the Rock-a-chaws advancing to the state playoffs after a second place finish in Division 8-4A. The result of that was two head coaching changes at Bay High and Pass Christian. We will see what changes come on the gridiron in a matter of about 83 days.

On the trails, the area enjoyed top three finishes at the state meet from SSC and Pass Christian girls while OLA was fourth. Bay High will field a team next year to add more to the mix.

In the pool, OLA finished second in the Class I state championships while SSC was third.

On the hardwood, the Bay High Tigers won Division 8-4A and SSC was second while the Lady Pirates and the Lady Hawks both made the playoffs, too.

Bay High girls soccer - Division 8-4A champions.

On the soccer field, the Bay High Lady Tigers and the Rocks both claimed the Division 8-4A titles while the Tigers also made the playoffs.

On the courts, the SSC/OLA team returned to the top of Division 8-4A and claimed their 20th title in the last 22 years. They advanced to the Class 4A South State title match. Individually, the SSC/OLA mixed doubles team of Jacob Estrada/Paige Palazzo won the state title.

On the links, the Hancock Lady Hawks won the division title and placed second in Class 6A by just eight strokes and Kaitlyn Altese was the individual state champion. OLA's Kati Albright was state runner-up in the Class I girls championship.

On the open seas, the sailing Rocks won the state title for the third consecutive season.

On the softball diamond, there were division champions but the Bay High Lady Tigers advanced to the second round of the Class 4A playoffs while the Lady Hawks advanced to the Class 6A playoffs.

On the baseball diamond, the Rocks win the Division 8-4A title and advanced to the third round of the Class 4A state play-offs while Pass Christian advanced.

On the track, the Pass Christian boys and girls teams both won the Division 8-4A title while the Lady Pirates went on to win the Regional and South State titles and finish as state runner-up in Class 4A. The Rocks were Regional and South State runners-up and finished third in Class 4A. OLA was runner-up at Regional and South State and also placed third in Class 2A.

So, as you can see, there was a lot of success across the board with the many varsity teams. There was also some tremendous individual success, as well. With names like Olivia Gelpi, Brandon Bordelon, Marguerite Gelpi, Luke Ladner, Trace Rhodes and William Weber from SSC and OLA. Look no further than Damonta May, Haley Clark, and Kamdyn Skinner of Pass Christian. Or Maddie Ladner, Blake Comeaux, Bella Thoennes, Harleigh Lafontaine, Trenton Ladner, or Brooks Rayburn of Hancock. Then, there is Maxwell Lewis, Marion Pohl, Cade Compretta and Garrett Langrell of Bay High. And, the list could go on.

Some of these individuals will be back next year but the majority will not. All good runs come to an end and this school year is very much the same.

Outside of school, this year has seen the end of the Marvel Comic Universe's Avengers and the death of Iron Man. It has witnessed the end of the most watched television series in history with 'Game of Thrones' and the fall from grace of our great Khaleesi. And, deep down, we all knew nerds were cool but it took 12 seasons of 'The Big Bang Theory' to prove it to us and leave us wanting more.

As Tony Stark so eloquently reminded us at his demise, 'The end is part of the journey'.

This year had to come to an end because mankind cannot stop time and age is the only disease that humans will never defeat. For some, this weekend of graduation will mark the last time we see each other together like this again. To those making the final steps in this chapter, I leave you with the title of perhaps the greatest power ballad in rock and roll history sang at the end of my senior year some 31 years ago by Skid Row, 'I Remember You.'

Until we meet again on the fields of play, see you at the game!

I will be respectful, I will be safe, I will be responsible, I will be prepared." Waveland Elementary students repeat these lines each morning to help learn them understand how to be a good citizen. This year, they also had some advice for others about what it means to be an American, and they shared it in the form of art.

Each year, during art class, K-2 students of the Bay-Waveland district participate in the Law Day Art Contest, sponsored by the Mississippi Bar Association. The contest is open to all students grades K-12, and involves mock elections, art and essay contests, and debates. The competition provides curriculum and resources for a new theme each year, and is a favorite project at Waveland Elementary.

Students learned about the 1st Amendment by acting out this year's theme, "Freedom of Press, Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Society" and considering what would happen without freedom, before planning and painting their posters.

Of the twelve school wide winners at Waveland Elementary, four students also received statewide awards. Statewide winners' artwork was displayed around the rotunda at the state Capitol in Jackson for a week in May.

Statewide winners will also have their posters featured in an online gallery at www.msbar.org, and the artwork will be printed in the Spring issue of the MS Lawyer Magazine.

Sickle Cell Foundation Golf Tournament

SEA COAST ECHO

The 6th Annual Knights and Ladies of Peter Claver Sickle Cell Foundation Golf Tournament will be held at The Bridges Golf Course at Hollywood Casino in Bay St. Louis, on Saturday, June 1. The two-player scramble format will begin with a shotgun start at 8:00 am.

"It has been a tremendous journey so far," said KPC Council #26 Grand Knight and tournament co-chair Joseph Piernas. "We have raised almost $20,000 so far, and the response this year has been great."

"The Sickle Cell Foundation of Mississippi does great work helping families, and we are honored to be a part of that," said Piernas.

A member of the Knights of Peter Claver Ladies Auxiliary, Florence Jordan knows from personal experience the importance of the work of the Sickle Cell Foundation of Mississippi. Jordan's daughter lost her battle with the disease in 1999.

"Alicia was two years old when she was diagnosed with sickle cell anemia," said Jordan. "Our lives were never the same again. It is a very painful and scary disease. Alicia was in and out of doctors offices and hospitals all her life." "What the Knights of Peter Claver and Ladies Auxiliary are doing helps families," said Jordan. "I am so glad that every year we are able to raise money for the foundation."

Golfers of all levels are invited to participate. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place. Additional prizes will be awarded to the first hole-in-ones made on designated par three holes.

The entry fee is $160 per team ($80 per golfer). Individual players are welcome and will be assigned to teams. Lunch and beverages will be provided to each player.

Individuals or businesses may support the Sickle Cell Foundation Golf Tournament by purchasing tee box signs ($100 per). Also, ball drop tickets may be purchased from members of the organizations at a cost of $5 each or three for $10. Half of the ball drop money raised will go to the person(s) whose ball drops into the designated hole.

The Sickle Cell Foundation Golf Tournament is jointly sponsored by The Knights of Peter Claver and Ladies Auxiliaries Councils and Courts #6 & #26 (St. Rose de Lima in Bay St. Louis and Our Mother of Mercy in Pass Christian). Money raised goes to the Sickle Cell Foundation of Mississippi, which helps families in Mississippi affected by sickle cell anemia.

Some of the money is used for traveling expenses of families traveling back and forth to Jackson for treatment.

Registration forms may be picked up from any member of the Knights of Peter Claver and Ladies Auxiliary.

For more information, contact Joe Piernas, 228-323-2372, Melvin Cook, 228-243-3205, or Maurice Singleton 228-216-7827.

Beat the Heat with Cool Treats

BY LINDA BIGLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

While much of the country still has a few weeks of spring remaining, the temperature is climbing to the nineties down here. It is time to dig out those ice cream freezers which we stowed away a few short months ago. I am going to keep the recipes simple, so most of the ice cream will be for the Philadelphia style which contains no eggs. This way one does not have to worry about contracting salmonella from ingesting raw eggs. Be sure to follow the instructions for your ice cream machine as the amounts of liquid the machines can hold varies. You may have to freeze the mixture in two batches. I am fortunate to have a machine that has two containers to put in the freezer.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

3 cups heavy cream
One half cup sugar
1-quart strawberries washed, hulled, and quartered
One third cup whole milk

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Place the cream in a microwave proof bowl and heat in the microwave for 60 to 90 seconds or until warm, but do not allow to boil. Stir in the sugar until it is completely dissolved. Set aside to cool

Place the prepared strawberries along with the milk and vanilla in a blender. A hand-held stick blender can also be used. Blend until the strawberries are pureed. Add the berry mixture to the cooled cream. Place in the refrigerator for at least two hours or as long as 24 hours. Freeze in your ice cream machine according to manufacturer's directions. The ice cream can be eaten when it is right out of the machine. If a firmer product is desired, place in a container, cover tightly and freeze for at least two hours.

Makes about one and a half quarts

PISTACHIO ICE CREAM

1 cup shelled, unsalted pistachios, divided
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
12 ounces half and half
One half cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

One half teaspoon pure almond extract
12 ounces heavy cream
One fourth teaspoon salt
One fourth teaspoon green food coloring, optional
Place three fourth cups of the pistachios and the corn syrup in a food processor and process until smooth.

Coarsely chop the remaining quarter cup of the nuts. Cover tightly, and set aside.

Place the half and half in a microwave safe bowl and heat for 60 to 90 seconds until warm. Do not allow to boil. Remove from the microwave, add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Pour the warmed half and half into the food processor with the machine running. Allow to process for about a minute. Pour the mixture through a sieve and stir in the remaining ingredients except for the reserved pistachios. Cover, chill until cold or overnight. Freeze in your ice cream machine according to the manufacturer's instructions. This might have to be done in two batches. When the mixture has thickened, add the reserved chopped pistachios and let the machine run until the nuts are distributed. The ice cream can be eaten immediately at the soft stage or placed into a container with a tight-fitting lid and frozen until firm.

Makes about 1 quart

We all know that ice cream is not the only frozen confection. For those who have a problem with dairy products or who want a more refreshing treat, there are sorbets to be enjoyed.

PINEAPPLE SORBET

One half cup water
One half cup sugar
One large pineapple peeled, cored, and coarsely chopped
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Place the water and sugar in a saucepan, bring to a boil over medium heat. Stir until sugar is dissolved, remove from heat and cool.

Place the cooled syrup, chopped pineapple, and lemon juice in a blender. Blend until smooth.

Freeze in your ice cream machine according to manufacturer's directions. Can be eaten immediately in the softened state or placed in a container with a tightly fitted lid and frozen until firm.

Makes about 1 quart

Watermelon-Zinfandel Sorbet
6 cups watermelon, seeded and cut into one-inch cubes

One half cup sugar

One third cup light corn syrup

One third cup white Zinfandel

Puree watermelon, two cups at a time, in a food processor or blender. Pour into a bowl and set aside.

Combine sugar and corn syrup in a small saucepan over medium heat. Stir until sugar dissolves. Stir in wine and cool to room temperature. When cooled stir sugar mixture into the pureed watermelon. Freeze in your ice cream machine according to manufacturer's directions. Can be eaten immediately in the softened state or placed in a container with a tight-fitting lid and frozen until firm.

Makes about one and one-half quarts

Regardless of how you choose to beat the heat enjoy the summer, all six months of it.

Kennel vs. Pet Sitter

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: How do I know if a dog-care facility or a dog sitter are legit? We're planning a vacation this summer and can't take "Riley," our German Shepherd. — Barbara L., Parsippany, New Jersey

DEAR BARBARA: You're doing the right thing by checking out more than one option for Riley's care while you're away. A dog kennel has its good points — as well as specific things to watch for. Likewise for a dog sitter, who will come to your home regularly to feed, walk and play with your dog.

In New Jersey, animal facilities including kennels must be licensed annually. They also must be inspected by the local health department to make sure they are sanitary and comply with building codes.

Of course, that's not enough to ensure a satisfactory boarding experience for Riley. No one wants to come back from vacation to find their dog got sick or, in the case of an Indiana couple, was lost. Here are some tips:

— Personally visit each facility and ask for a tour.

— Do research online: Read reviews, search for notices of violations, and look for any news articles about the facilities, good or bad.

— Ask around at the dog park: Find out where other owners boarded their pets. The regulations for in-home pet sitters are not as clear, and so you need to check out potential sitters closely. Word-of-mouth recommendations and positive online reviews are a good start, but don't go by these alone.

— Meet the sitters personally to interview them, learn about their experience and see how they interact with Riley.

— Ask if they're affiliated with any national or international pet sitter organizations.

— Find out if they are bonded and insured — this protects both you and the sitter should anything go amiss.

Send your questions, comments or tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

This happy, loving boy is Lane, a 3 year old American Pit Bull Terrier mix, who is not only handsome, but very charming as well. He gives great hugs and kisses, and never meets a stranger. He is a pretty calm natured fella with other dogs, and seems to make friends easily. Lane came into the shelter in very good physical condition and is very well socialized, so we feel he was part of a family very recently. While he keeps his kennel clean, we are still observing his kennel habits to determine if he may be house trained. He walks well on a leash, and never seems in a hurry. Lane is a very content and obedient dog, and is best described as having a medium energy level. He sits for treats, and seems eager to please, so it may a great bonding activity to continue Lane's learning of new commands. If you've been seeking a buddy for companionship and to share in your adventures, then Lane is your dog. He would also be a great choice to join a family with school aged children or older. Lane has been with us for 5 months! Please come by the shelter at 7175 Texas Flat Rd, Kiln, to meet this sweet boy. He is BFF material, and he would love some kiddos of his very own. Call 228 466 4516 for more information, and visit our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to see more pictures of Lane, and of the many other wonderful, adoptable animals looking for their forever homes.

Junior Whirl

by Charles Barry Townsend

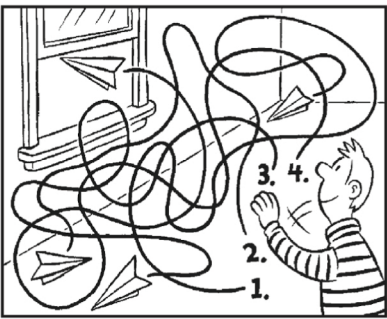

DON'T GET 'BORED' SOLVING THIS ONE!

Our Junior Whirl carpenter built this fence using only "word planks" that ended with the word BOARD. The following hints should help you nail down the answers:

- Used with telephones (given).
- A place to advertise.
- Right-side of ship.
- Found around water.
- Old-time cars had two.
- Computers need them.
- College professor's headgear.
- Used in the Old West.

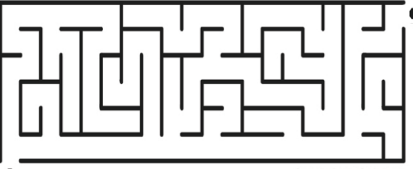

Answers: 1. Switchboard. 2. Billboard. 3. Starboard. 4. Diving board. 5. Running board. 6. Keyboard. 7. Mortarboard. 8. Buckboard.

A WINDOW OF OPPORTUNITY! See if you can guess which paper plane made it to the outside world. You only get one try.

Answer: The fourth plane.

Even Exchange

by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

DON'T CRY BECAUSE IT'S OVER

BY GARY ANDREWS
GARY@GADEVOTIONALS.COM

Don't cry because it's over; smile because it happened! Dr. Suess.

What a great saying and verse. Most of us are guilty of feeling sad and lonely because we go to an event or family gathering and when it is over we think to our self, "Why does it have to end?" We relish in the company of friends and family and enjoy the good times, conversations, and each other's company. We go away from a truly great event sad because it is over and complain because it will be no more.

Many of us get caught up in the moment and for that brief period of time we are satisfied with who and what is around us. We take our self out of the world and our worries become lost in the back of our mind. This is some of the greatest moments we will experience while on this earth.

Then our event ends; our friends and family disperse, and we drop into that feeling of loneliness. Many of us become depressed because we are afraid of losing that feeling of happiness and enjoyment and now must face the world again. Just because we have had a great time with family and friends we shouldn't let parting take away from the joy that we experienced. We should all be glad and smile because the event or gathering took place and relish in the memories that it will provide.

We are told in Ecclesiastes 3:1; "To everything there is a season, A time for every purpose under heaven."

I remember the day of my retirement from the newspaper industry. Family, friends, and many well-wishers came by that day to wish me well as I started a new chapter in my life. It gave the same feeling as if I was leaving something that I had enjoyed for 35 plus years and yet it wasn't going to be the same tomorrow.

Do I feel regret that it is over? Yes, but in a sense of missing the people I was with and around every day. Do I wish I could go back and relive some of the moments that took place during my tenure? Yes, but most people will always wish they could re-live some moments of their life again.

The verse in Ecclesiastes gives me comfort for I know the Lord has a season for everything that I do. Whether it is retiring or leaving a family event I feel that crying is unnecessary because it was a great time, even though that part of life passed so quickly. It truly is a time when all of us, no matter what we are doing or what we have been to or done, should relish in the fact that memories are great to have and that the Lord is truly in control.

This one statement: "Don't cry because it's over; smile because it happened" stays with me and in my heart all of the time because in only a short while when all of us will leave our family on earth and go home to be with the Lord.

Prayer: Thank you Lord for the assurance of living with you for all eternity. Thank you for accepting me into your family of believers and reassuring me that being with you is my future. Amen.

CAUSE NO.: 18-419-JS
SUMMONS AND NOTICE OF HEARING
THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI
TO ALL UNKNOWN HEIRS AT LAW OF WILLIAM JAMES HANSEN, Deceased, all of whose names, post office addresses, street addresses and places of residence are unknown after diligent search and inquiry. You have been made a Defendant named in the PETITION TO DETERMINE HEIRS, ("Petition") filed in this Court for determination of heirs of WILLIAM JAMES HANSEN, seeking to have JAMES A. HANSEN, MARIA A. HANSEN, and CAROL J. VANLOO declared to be the heirs-at-law of WILLIAM JAMES HANSEN, Deceased, who died on the 12th day of May, 2018, and who had at the time of his death a fixed place of residence in Diamondhead, Hancock County, Mississippi, and for other relief requested in the Petition. Defendants other than you in this action are any unknown heirs-at-law or next of kin of the Decedent.

NOTICE TO DEFENDANT OF HEARING
You are summoned to appear and defend against the Petition filed against you in this action in the Harrison County Courthouse located at Gulfport, Mississippi, at 9:30 o'clock A.M., on the 3rd day of July, 2019, before the Honorable Jennifer Schoegel, Chancellor, and in case of your failure to appear and defend, a judgment will be entered against you for the money or other things demanded in the Petition.
You are not required to file an answer or other pleading, but you may do so if you desire. ISSUED UNDER MY HAND AND THE SEAL OF THIS COURT, this the 21 day of May, 2019.

SEA COAST ECHO

Pass Christian Library is pleased to announce our Middle School Summer Science Programs on Thursdays from 2 to 4 p.m. starting June 4, for youth ages 10-to-14-years old.

The youth will be learning everything from programming a robot, learning about our water from deep in the earth to our Gulf of Mexico and some good and bad stuff that is in our water. They will learn about the microplastics in our water and the sharks that swim in it too. All programs are hands on, experiment based.

Due to limited space in the class, we are requiring youth to register in advance by calling the Pass Christian Public Library at 228-452-4596 or email pass-christianlibrary@gmail.com! Don't miss out on this great class!
